Dear Parent or Guardian:

Occasionally, during school hours, it is convenient for students to drive their own vehicles on school-connected errands.

Some specific examples are:

To be a teacher's aide in the Middle School or one of the elementary schools, to get parts for small engines class, hardware for woodworking projects, metal for welding, or to sell ads for the yearbook.

Students are quick to volunteer to drive on such errands, but school insurance will not cover should an accident occur. We feel parents should be aware of this fact and also parental permission should be given before students are allowed to drive personal vehicles.

I give my permission for _____

Student's name

Car make, year, license #

_____ both of the above

a personal or family vehicle on school related errands during school hours.

Sincerely,
